

PERPLEXING SUBJECT BEFORE SCHOOL BOARD

At the meeting of the city board of education, held last night, it was ordered that the boys of the two lower classes at the high school should be required to wear their uniforms during all study hours each drill day. This was later reconsidered and it was proposed that the wearing of the uniforms at times other than during drill hours be optional. To this proposition, Director H. H. Henderson gave opposition, saying that it might cause unpleasant distinctions, it having been reported to him that such a policy in Salt Lake had practically segregated the children of less prosperous families from those of well-to-do households, as those who could afford a school suit in addition to their uniform, changed their clothes after drills, while the poorer boys were required to wear their uniforms all the time. This condition, the judge stated, caused class distinctions which were unpleasant to the children of poorer parents.

After a brief further discussion, a committee composed of President Pin-gree and Director Johnson was appointed to interview both parents and students on the question. The question of paying the dues of the city teachers to the state association, amounting to $250, was also brought up and finally settled in the affirmative. In the forepart of the discussion, it was said that the board had already informally promised to pay the dues, but Director Henderson thought that on account of the shortage of school funds, the informal promise should be ignored. It was argued, however, by other members of the board, that the attendance of the teachers at the state convention would be of material benefit to the Ogdens schools, due to the information they would receive there.

One of the directors suggested that the board pay only the tuition fees of the teachers attending the convention. This brought a question from Director Henderson as to how the board would know whether or not some of the teachers went to Salt Lake and registered for all of the others.

In answer to this, President Pin-gree stated that, in his opinion, the board need not suspect the Ogdens teachers of such susceptibility. He then changed the trend of the discussion and a motion was passed to pay the fees and to leave the attendance at the convention optional with the teachers.

On account of reports that the high school boys and girls were in the habit of congregating in the high school building after dark, the school board decided that the building be locked up at 5 o'clock.

HOWARD R. DRIGGS AT MADISON SCHOOL

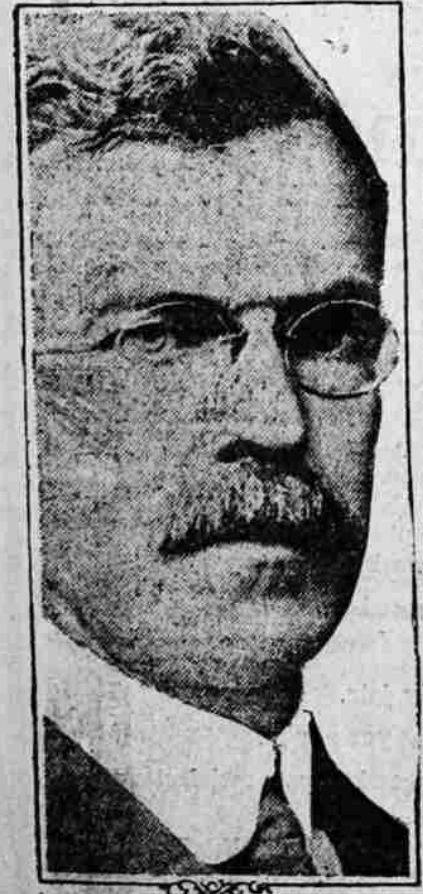

About one hundred members attended the meeting of the Madison School Parent-Teachers' association, Friday afternoon. Professor Howard R. Driggs, president of the Utah Teachers' association, was the speaker. He not only explained what books are proper for children, but has entertained the meeting with numerous examples. He especially met the objections to the use of fairy tales.

Throughout the lecture, important suggestions were given for the purchase of children's books as Christmas presents.
